Amendments to the Specification

Please insert the following paragraph as a new paragraph beginning on page 5 of line 29 of the specification:

The ant groove is substantially trapezoidal shape in section, with the ant groove having an opening and a bottom opposite the opening, with the opening having a length running transversely to the sealing material, with the bottom having a length running transversely to the sealing material, and with the length of the bottom being greater than the length of the opening such that said ant groove is dovetail shaped in section.
